TIME 1968

SETTING J. C. S. movie studios in Hollywood. Johnny Clinard the great movie director, has invited his 1952-53 classmates of Ardmore School to witness the first filming of a 4D picture.

As the curtain opens he is talking to Ann Poley, heroine of the picture, Virginia Griffith, toe dancer, Bobby Chambers a character actor, and Paul Rollins, the one and only push button cameraman.

CURTAIN OPENS

JOHNNY C. I can hardly wait for our former classmates to arrive.

ANN P. I hope everyone will be here. But Miss Mecum is chasing horse rustlers off her cattle ranch on Mars and radared yesterday that she was too busy to come.

BOBBY C. I must rehearse this line from the script. "I was" -----

PAUL R. Aw, shut up. Here comes somebody now. (Rosalie Painter, Peggy Cryner, and Ann Marshall enter)

VIRGINIA My if it isn't the two Singing "Cuskitiers," Peggy Cryner and Rosalie Painter.

JOHNNY C. Ann Marshall, the great model! I must have you in this picture!

ANN M. Well, Johnny, I'd love to. But I really must get back to my work in Paree.

BOBBY C. Let's have a song, Peggy and Rosalie.

ROSALIE Okay, we'll sing "I Believe".

(Peggy and Rosalie together)

"I believe for every drop of rain that falls" -----

PAUL R. Stop the music. More company.

VIRGINIA It's Rolland Houston the stock rocket driver.

(Rolland enters)

ROLLAND Is there--is there--is there any stock racing rocket--I mean stock rocket racing in this picture?

JOHNNY C. (Shakes head) No.

ROLLAND I'm in a race today and I go-got-gotta g-g-g-go. (He exits)

ANN M Hello Wilfred. Nobody has to guess what you are doing for a living.

WILFRED No, I was third baseman for the Chicago White Sox until I broke my arm.

BOBBY C. The ones in the movie had better come along and get ready.

VIRGINIA Our makeup people are sick. Peggy, you and Rosalie come and help us.

JOHNNY C. Wilfred, you greet the people as they arrive. (Paul R., Bobby C., Johnny C., Ann P., Peggy Cryner, Virginia G., and Rosalie exit)

ANN TRAVIS (Enters) Hello everybody. (In a hurry)
